

NOT THRILLED
TO BE HERE?

Geek Squad has your back. Here you'll find information about Sex and the City's main characters (so you can speak intelligently at dinner tonight), some sample excuses - if you need a breather, and quarters for the arcade games. After all, if you bring back a stuffed animal, no one will remember that your "bathroom break" took 45 minutes.

CHARACTER DETAILS:

- CARRIE BRADSHAW (Sarah Jessica Parker) was the narrator of each episode. She writes a weekly relationship column, “Sex and the City” for the fictitious newspaper, The New York Star.
- SAMANTHA JONES (Kim Cattrall) is the oldest, most sexual and confident of the foursome. Samantha has a successful career in public relations.
- CHARLOTTE YORK (Kristin Davis) works in an art gallery and is the most conservative and positive of the group, placing more emphasis on emotional love than lust.
- MIRANDA HOBBS (Cynthia Nixon) is a lawyer with cynical views on relationships. She became pregnant by her on/off boyfriend, Steve Brady, whom she eventually married.

EXCUSES:

- Damn it! I specifically asked for three pumps of artificial butter flavoring!
- I promised my mom that I’d call her when we got to the theater.
- I think I saw my old college roommate in the lobby – that guy owes me $50.
